Be sure to look up if you're walking by 34th Street approaching Steinway Street.

You'll see the just-opened RIOULT Dance Center, with its floor-to-ceiling windows, shiny and new.

Last week, the RIOULT Dance NY team officially opened the site, which will offer classes to both professionals and local youth alike.

The artistic director is none other than Pascal Rioult, a France native who was a principal at the famed Martha Graham Dance Company. He leads the vision of the company, which has already established itself in the dance community.

If you're inclined, stop by and take a class or two!
